

WILLIS AND DONAHEY WIN IN OHIO

Republicans To Control Senate By Narrow Margin

COUNTY VOTE LIGHT; GOWDY MADE JUDGE

LATEST REPORTS CUT DONAHEY'S LEAD BUT SWELL WILLIS VOTE

"Victory Approves Party Principles", Says Senator—
Entire Republican Ticket Wins Except Cooper

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—Returns from 7,922 precincts announced this afternoon showed Governor Vic Donahey with a margin of 16,819 over his Republican opponent, Myers Y. Cooper. The vote was:
Donahey, 637,425; Cooper, 620,606.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—The lead of Governor Donahey, Democratic candidate for a third term, over Myers Y. Cooper, Republican, was cut to less than 10,000 on the face of unofficial returns tabulated from 7,605 of the state's total of 8,649 precincts today. The tabulation showed:
Donahey, 606,892; Cooper, 598,348.
Donahey's lead—8,544 votes.

The same precincts gave: Pomerene, 556,587; Willis, 615,091.

Figures given out at 7 a. m. by the office of the secretary of state, showing Donahey with a lead of more than 50,000 votes over Cooper, with almost a million votes accounted for, were later declared to contain many errors and were hastily recalled.

In the race for United States senator, Frank B. Willis, Republican incumbent, had a commanding advantage over former Senator Atlee Pomerene and there was apparently no possibility of the Democratic candidate overcoming this advantage.

"The victory indicated by the returns thus far received places Ohio's stamp of approval on the achievements and policies of the Republican party in the last five years under the leadership of Presidents Harding and Coolidge," said Senator Willis.

"The contest was a trial of strength between the principles and policies of the Republican and Democratic parties. I am personally grateful to all those who have given me their support.
On the face of these returns,

"A woman who smokes will do anything." It is that sort of chance remark, overheard at a dinner party, which prompted Beatrice Burton's latest serial, "Honey Lou," which begins in this paper tomorrow.

DEMOCRATS ATTAIN SEVEN SEATS WHILE G. O. P. SELECTS 21

Defeat Of Butler And Wadsworth Most Notable

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The Democrats have emerged from the off-year elections with a notable series of triumphs.

The biennial political pendulum swung hard against the Republicans; so hard that it almost, if not quite, lost them control of the senate and hard enough that it materially reduced their working majority in the house.

The administration, it appeared today, with several states still in doubt, can organize the senate of the next congress by the narrow margin of a single vote or not more than two.

While so scanty a margin is sufficient for organization purposes, it is not sufficient for actual control. That will be vested in a coalition of Democrats and Republican insurgents—whenever they care to exercise it.

The net gains for the Democrats in yesterday's balloting appears today to be seven seats in the senate and probably a dozen in the house.

The most notable and certain Democrat senatorial victories were won in New York and Massachusetts, and on the face of incomplete but representative returns, they also appear to have won senate seats in Maryland, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Missouri, and Arizona. Several other states, notably Oregon, and Indiana, have races sufficiently close as to be considered doubtful this morning.

President Coolidge has sustained probably the most severe loss of his lengthy political career in the defeat of his personal friend and campaign manager, Senator William Morgan Butler, in Massachusetts. Mr. Coolidge asked the voters of his home state to elect Butler to the senate and he traveled to Northampton yesterday by special train to vote for his friend and thus emphasize his desire to see Butler sent back to Washington.

Massachusetts responded to the White House ukase by electing Butler's Democratic opponent, ex-Senator David I. Walsh, by a majority that surprised even the hopeful Democratic managers. Walsh ran as an avowed opponent of the Volstead law; Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, as a dry.

What effect, if any, this blow to the president's prestige will have on the talk of Mr. Coolidge's "availability" for renomination in 1928 is a matter that was being

WASHINGTON ASTOUNDED BY RESULT OF ELECTION; BUTLER DEFEAT BITTER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Washington was astounded as it studied the election returns today.

It had been expected that the Democrats would make gains both in the senate and the house but it did not expect that the Democrats would roll up such sweeping majorities as they did in numerous states.

Consequently, there was joy at Democratic headquarters today and gloom at the Republicans.

Particularly bitter to the president was the defeat of his warm friend, Senator Butler in Massachusetts, by ex-Senator Walsh, Democrat. For Butler the president did what he did for no other candidate—gave him a public endorsement. Besides he even went home to vote for Butler, but all to no avail.

After his return from Northampton, the president did not remain long to get returns. He made no public comment whatever last night.

FAMOUS HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL OPENS IN NEW JERSEY

Tense Interest and Excitement Greet Opening Of Case—Three Called Before Bar Of Justice On Old Death Charge

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 3.—An important page in American criminal history was being written in Somerville today—the opening day of the famous Hall-Mills murder trial.

The glare of the international spotlight was turned fully upon a tiny courtroom where an aristocratic, wealthy woman and her two brothers were to be brought to trial for the strange murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, of New Brunswick, N. J., and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, member of his church choir, who were shot to death in a "lovers' lane" on the night of September 14, 1922. Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the slain rector's widow and Willie and Henry Stevens are the defendants.

Long before the hour when Judge Charles W. Parker was formally to bring the accused trio before the bar of justice, the attractive white marble court house, set primly on a grassy hill overlooking the main street of Somerville, was affluited with excitement.

Photographers were rushing about "shooting" pictures of the principles in the "crime of the century." Over on Main Street, an enterprising radio expert was standing by the microphone ready to broadcast the news to the world.

At 10:15 a. m., Judge Charles W. Parker, seated in front of a huge American flag, formally summoned Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, before the bar of justice to answer to the charge of murder.

The clerk went through the formality of calling the twenty-nine names left on the "struck jury" list from which the trial jury is drawn. Some of them failed to answer. The panel was so meager that there was a possibility that the trial might be delayed through failure to obtain a jury from the list available.

State Senator Alex Simpson, the diminutive prosecutor who is handling the state's case virtually alone, went over the list of names available to the two judges.

WILLIS, COOPER AND REPUBLICAN TICKET GIVEN MAJORITIES

Pomerene Runs Behind Donahey Locally Vote Reveals

Returning to normalcy as one of the leading Republican strongholds in the state, Greene County's vote at the regular election Tuesday was the usual landslide for the Republicans.

The tabulated unofficial vote from all forty-seven precincts gave the entire Republican state ticket majorities ranging from 800 to 2,000.

Proposed constitutional amendment for abolition of the direct primary system of nominating candidates for public office was dealt a hard blow in this county. With one precinct missing, the proposal received an adverse vote of 3,583 to 1,853, almost two to one.

Myers Y. Cooper, Republican candidate for governor, was given a plurality of 2,200 over Vic Donahey, Democratic candidate to succeed himself as chief executive of Ohio, while Frank B. Willis, Republican candidate for re-election as senator, headed the state ticket, running nearly 3,000 votes ahead of Atlee Pomerene, former senator and his Democratic opponent.

In the race for attorney-general, Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield, Democrat, trailed Edward C. Turner, his Republican opponent, by 1,700 votes in this county.

James O. Mills, Republican candidate for re-election as senator, headed the state ticket, running nearly 3,000 votes ahead of Atlee Pomerene, former senator and his Democratic opponent.

NINE YEAR HONEYMOON TAKES MAN AND WIFE 275,000 MILES WITHOUT MONEY

By MARY BLADE
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Because they've never had enough money to "settle down" Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bartlett have been honeymooning for nine years. They don't know how much longer the honeymoon will continue, for they're on their way to Europe on another lap of it.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK BARTLETT

Just after they were married, the husband asked the wife where she'd like to go for a honeymoon. She replied, "Oh, all over the world."
"All right, if you're game, we will."
So they set out in a small automobile from Los Angeles, with a determination to see the entire globe.
To date they have traveled 275,000 miles and have visited every country in North and South America, and a long series of islands in both the Atlantic and Pacific. Having covered the Western hemisphere they are now starting for the eastern side of the world. Their present plan is to travel through the British Isles, then take the rest of Europe, Africa and Asia in order.

Mrs. Bartlett indicated that she'll be entirely ready to "settle down" when this jaunt is completed.
"I like traveling this way," she said, "but it is getting awfully hard work. Settling down and doing my work in my own kitchen would seem very good to me."
Their system, Bartlett explained, is to work as they go, stopping just long enough at each place to save up enough money for the next lap of the trip. In the course of their trek they have washed dishes in the United States, herded cattle in Patagonia and mined diamonds in Brazil. When their long trip is over they intend to write a book about their travels and obtain enough money to get a start in a placid existence.

Just after they were married, the husband asked the wife where she'd like to go for a honeymoon. She replied, "Oh, all over the world."
"All right, if you're game, we will."

RECEPTION IN PIQUA

FOR MR. AND MRS. RIDENOUR
One of the most brilliant affairs of the Autumn in Piqua society was the reception given Friday evening at the Piqua Golf Club, by Mr. Harry Bell, Mr. Clarence Jones and Mr. Stantone Tafel, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franklin Ridenour, who arrived home last week from New York City and whose wedding was an interesting recent event.

The reception was held in the lounge which was transformed for the occasion into a gorgeous Autumnal setting. Festoons of richly shaded oak leaves adorned the walls and mantel while the side lights were shaded with large yellow paper hearts through which were thrust white arrows. The bridal idea was evidenced in the decoration of the chandeliers which were covered by white paper wedding bells from which fell a shower of yellow and white baby chrysanthemums on streams of white satin.

In the receiving line were the hosts, Messrs. Bell, Jones and Tafel and the honor guests, Mrs. Ridenour was beautifully attired in her wedding gown of white Dutchess satin with traceries of glistering crystals and pearls. She wore a corsage bouquet of delicate pink roses and tiny white chrysanthemums.

Harold Greenamyer's orchestra played during the reception. Dancing began at 10 o'clock.

In the dining room, the color scheme of yellow and white was carried out with a huge centerpiece of yellow and white baby chrysanthemums on the bride's table. Quantities of bloom, with lighted tapers decked the smaller tables. A two course supper was served.

HALLOWE'EN SPIRIT PREVAILS TUESDAY AT CARNIVAL HERE

The combined hilarious spirit of Halloween and interest in the election resulted in a successful gala celebration on Xenia streets, sponsored by Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and Xenia Municipal Band, Tuesday night.

The Halloween celebration was postponed from Saturday until Tuesday night on account of rain the first night, and the arrival of election returns at the hour set for the start of the celebration attracted hundreds.

Streets in the business section were lined with hilarious merry-makers. The parade, the main feature of the program, was staged at 8 o'clock, the line of march starting at the Post Office and traversing the main business section. Participants in the parade lined up before the judges stand in front of the Court House, where a committee of judges from the three sponsoring organizations gave prizes. Names of the prize winners were not learned by the judges. A couple in tar and feathers costume, won first prize.

Music was furnished preceding, during and after the parade by the Municipal Band. Revelers disbanded after the march and the majority of merry-makers attended a dance at the Knight of Pythias Hall.

Colds

One of the world's largest laboratories perfected a way to end colds. It combined a number of modern discoveries. That way proved itself so efficient, so quick, so complete that we paid $1,000,000 for it.

That way is called HILL'S. It checks a cold in 24 hours. It ends the fever, stops the headache. It opens the bowels, tones the entire system. And without any ill effects. As a result, one usually feels better than before the cold began.

Millions now employ it. When they learn its results they keep it ever on hand. Then a cold rarely gets started.

Here is all-in-all for colds—the best modern science knows. Things will change tomorrow if you take it now. Go start it without delay.

LIBRARY PROPOSAL CARRIES; VOTERS DECIDE ON BOND ISSUES

Proposed creation of a county library district in Greene County was regarded favorably by the electorate Tuesday, the measure carrying by a majority of approximately 800 votes. The vote was: Yes, 4,211; No, 3,491 according to latest unofficial returns from forty of forty one precincts balloting on the proposal.

Sugarcreek and Cedarville Twp., and Bellbrook are exempted from the vote having declined to consider being recognized in the district because of local libraries to support it is said.

Yellow Springs voters defeated the proposed $60,000 bond issue to provide for a municipal waterworks plant by thirty votes. The vote was: Yes, 271; No, 301. Result of the vote in Fairfield on a $40,000 bond issue for a similar purpose, was not available.

Four out of five proposed tax levies for school purposes, serving as leading local issues in five townships over the county, were carried, reports indicate. Measures place before voters of Cedarville Twp., Jamestown village, Bath Twp. and Yellow Springs, were accorded handsome majorities. Only in Ross Twp. did a school levy receive an adverse vote, the measure losing out by six votes.

Supporters of the plan to create a county library district were elated because of the outcome of the election Tuesday. Passage of the proposal places the county library under the annual budget, increases its annual income from $3,000 to approximately $8,000 and paves the way for extending book service to all parts of the county.

MANY SEE ELECTION RETURNS TUESDAY

Interest of Xenians and Greene Countyans in the election returns was satisfied by The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican, which staged an "election party" at the Gazette Building, S. Detroit St., Tuesday night.

Returns from the state and county were flashed on a screen in front of the Gazette Building by means of a stereopticon machine. Hundreds of interested spectators watched the returns.

State returns were received through special telephone service from International News Service, Columbus, while local returns were received by messenger service from the board of elections room in the Court House.

COUNTY APATHETIC ON TUESDAY VOTING

Armed with ballots, campaign literature and election promises, Greene Countyans dropped business connections long enough to charge the polls on election day.

It was literally a charge of the light brigade for never before has voting taken such a slump in Greene County.

The total estimated vote dropped off one-third from the vote two years ago for the same type of an election and political leaders are unable to account for the apathy upon the part of the electorate.

The estimated Republican vote exceeded the Democratic vote by less than a two to one margin.

Tabulation of the unofficial returns will probably be completed by officials of the board of elections Wednesday because of the light vote and the fact straight ticket voting was greatly in evidence.

FLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE HERE

Arrested by Dayton authorities and returned to Xenia Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff George Spencer on a warrant sworn out by Gordon Bros., garage, Robert Miller, Dayton, pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving a car while intoxicated before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Wednesday morning.

His hearing is set for Tuesday morning, November 16. He was released after providing bond.

His arrest was the outgrowth of an auto accident on the Dayton and Xenia Pike more than a week ago.

CHAIRMAN PLEADED WITH VOTE TUESDAY

In a formal statement made Wednesday, County Auditor R. O. Wead, as chairman and spokesman for the Republican Executive Committee, expressed gratification concerning the overwhelming Republican vote in Greene County at the Tuesday election.

It is an indication, he said, that

WHAT DOES HE MEAN?

Mother arises in the morning, gets breakfast for father and the children, gets the children off to school and father off to work. Father spends the day earning money. Mother spends it sewing, mending, washing, ironing, preparing for lunch for the children, seeing that they are clean as they go back to school, supervising their play and study after school, correcting what she considers injurious habits, checking up on bad grammar and bad manners, getting and serving dinner.

When father comes home, he plays his part in the family life. He consults with the children about school problems, lays down the law with authority on points where mother thinks she has not been sufficiently impressive, and adds the weight of his words in seeing that next day's school work is prepared and finally in getting the reluctant youngsters to go to bed.

At last a few minutes at peace. Mother picks up the evening paper and reads:

"The home is the weakest spot in America's social fabric of today," Dr. W. A. Trettien, professor of psychology in Toledo University, declared. Its influence should be much greater than it is. We should be forced to work out our domestic problems instead of sidestepping them."

It puzzles mother. She doesn't quite see what more she could have done. She reads the item to father. He is equally in the dark.

WELLS MAY VISIT CALIFORNIA

The news dispatches inform us that H. G. Wells, the English writer who gained notoriety on account of historical writings, however inaccurate they may be, and who has recently gained more criticism because of his reference to the English king as "a worthy, conscientious, entirely unmeaning and uninteresting son of plump old Edward," is contemplating a visit to California this winter. It is stated that Wells is sixty years of age and that he "feels the damp, foggy English winter." Well, now, we know just what part of California he should visit. If he cannot find enough damp foggy weather in San Francisco he might come down to San Jose, where the fog is often so dense in winter that you almost lose yourself in trying to get down town, and where, unless you cover up your clothes at night you will have to wring the dampness out of them in the morning before you put them on. Again, it is said, Wells has criticised royalty for doing so much traveling, "expensively" and returning "ridiculously empty." Should he come to America to spend the winter in California, or any other of our winter resorts he no doubt will change his mind about the "expense" part of traveling and whether or not he returns home with any more in his head than when he came, it is assured his purse will be "ridiculously empty" if he stays long enough.

CANNOT MAKE RETRIBUTION

Out of the horrors of war is that no reparations can ever fully repay for the damage done. Remorse may punish the perpetrator of an evil deed, but it never repays for the injury inflicted. Especially is this true when it has involved the death or maiming of another, as always happens in war. Since the admission of Germany to the League, a more friendly feeling has sprung up between the Germans and the French. This not only applies to them as nations but as individuals. The other day a German who was a soldier in the World War did up a package containing silver spoons, knives and forks, and sent them to the mayor of a small French village. He had stolen them during the war, but his conscience bothered him and he decided to return them. The sad part about the whole affair is that he may be unable to find the real owner. Perhaps he lies under the sod, a victim of a German bomb. The silverware may be returned in as good condition as when taken, but the lives of the men lost in the battles are gone. They cannot be restored.

There are two kinds of offenses—those which can be atoned for and those which cannot. Was it of the latter kind. Remorse may gnaw forever but it can never make restitution in kind.

BIG SUM FOR OPERA BOX

Just the other day we mentioned the growing interest among the middle classes in Chicago in grand opera. It was stated there that railroad employes, bank clerks and public utility employes are buying grand opera tickets, where before only bankers, professors and society folks patronized these entertainments. Now comes the information that an opera box in New York has been sold for $200,000. At that rate not many railroad men, clerks or public utility employes would be patronizing the opera. And not many college professors either. But in fairness it should be stated that the owner of this box, will share in the profits of the company owning the building. He gets a thirty-fifth interest in all the profits, as well as the use of the box. So he is not paying so much for the privilege of hearing the music as for the dividends he hopes to receive.

FISH SAUCES

"My family doesn't like fish," was frequently heard the housekeeper explain. Often this condition is traceable to the fact that the housekeeper never bothers to make a delicious sauce to serve with fish. Fish is one of the least expensive and one of the most easily digested of foods. If we can persuade our families to eat it by embellishing it with a tasty sauce, let us by all means master the making of that sauce! The two following varieties can be served on any kind of baked, broiled or fried fish:

Lemon Sauce: (Especially good on the white-meat fish. Often one feels that an oily fish such as the delicious sword fish needs to be accompanied by a slice of lemon, rather than a sauce. But the rather characterless cod, the cooked smelt, etcetera, most certainly require some such sauce as this.) Melt two tablespoons of butter in a small saucepan, rub into it three tablespoons of flour, 1-2 teaspoon of salt and one-fourth teaspoon of paprika. When well blended, stir in one and one-half cups of meat stock or clear canned soup, bring to the boil, stirring constantly, and add three tablespoons of minced parsley. (A tablespoon of minced olives may be used in place of the parsley when preferred.) Serve very hot on any baked (or broiled) fish.

Parsley Butter Sauce: This is an uncooked sauce. Cream three tablespoons of soft butter with one-fourth teaspoon of salt, and a pinch of pepper, and add two tablespoons of lemon juice and one tablespoon of minced parsley. Serve on the hot cooked fish.

Tartare Sauce is also a most popular sauce. Its foundation is Mayonnaise salad dressing. Buy the bottled kind on the market, or make it yourself. To one cupful of it add one-third cupful of minced pickles. Serve cold on hot baked or fried fish.

Friday night's dinner menu, as usual, will call for fish. Try one of these delicious sauces with it.

THE WEAR AND TEAR

Who lives his life with eyes wide open sees

Ere old he grows that naught is done with ease.

Achievement waits to test us, not to please.

Laughter and mirth are pleasant joys to know,

But nothing that is lasting they bestow.

Ships must be built to weather many a blow.

In all construction trouble's reckoned first

Beneath the strain which part may break or burst?

Builders of things prepare to meet the worst.

But we go forward thinking peace shall stay.

When blue the sky and merry is the day

All unconcerned we dance the hours away.

Yet storms must come as every sailor knows,

Grief must be borne as every sad face shows.

Failure and hurt and loss are common foes.

Wise is the man whose faith and will are strong.

Who sees that pleasure cannot last for long.

And is not caught, surprised, when things go wrong.

Cowards can smile when skies above are fair

But they are quickly broken by despair.

Only the strong hearts stand life's wear and tear.

The Theatre

At last Gloria Swanson has a chance to pick her own stories and show what she can do. In the past four or five years she has made some pictures that have been unique and others that failed to register.

Some months ago Gloria decided she would be happier as an independent producer so she straightway terminated her contract with Famous Players and made an agreement with United Artists whereby she as head of a separate producing unit released her productions under this banner.

Now she is at work on her first picture for U. A. distribution. It is "Sunya" with John Boles her leading man. Well-known impresario and bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Andre de Segura, succumbed to the lure of the movies and will play a role in "Sunya" similar to his life work. John Boles was enticed from "Kitty's Kisses" for which he sang until recently on Broadway, for "Sunya." Florence Fair, niece of Douglas Fairbanks, off the screen, is to be the sister of Gloria on the screen. Anders Randolph, who had a prominent part in "The Black Pirate," will be millionaire husband of Gloria. "Sunya" is the screen version of "Eyes of Youth."

Clara Bow is slated to be the "It" of Elinor Glyn's "It," the distinguished novelist's latest amateur-

ANOTHER ACCOUNT OF OLD CHILLICOTHE

Three miles north of Xenia is the old Indian town of Chillicothe, now Old Town, on the Little Miami River.

Of its history much has been written and much has been lost. It was one of the most noted villages, historically speaking, in the state; made so by the many scenes of suffering by torture of the white race at the hands of the savages; the birthplace of the noted chief of the Shawnee tribe of Indians, Tecumseh; the temporary prison of those grand old pioneers from Kentucky, Daniel Boone and Simon Kenton and many others less known in history, who were captured and carried there as prisoners.

We read of their sufferings at the hands of their captors, of their courage and escapes and their heroism in behalf of this beautiful land, but often it is forgotten what it cost to reclaim it from wilderness and the labor it took to make it bloom and blossom like a rose as it is today.

It is said to have had a population of 1,100 Indians. About 300 of these were fighting men. The village was a quarter of a mile in length, the huts being set out irregularly. The location of most of the huts was on the little eminence now covered by the school house, frame house, barn, an orchard on the left side of the road going north. The commonest Indians had their huts along the creek bank.

The council house was near where the school house now stands. It was a long narrow building, roughly made and hardly water proof. When Girty and the renegade Scotchman, Dixon, came to live with Chief Blackfish, they helped to construct a better council house. Remains of the council house, such as rotten timbers, stood until 1840.

TIMOTHY GROWS ON BACKS OF SHEEP

SEDALIA, O., Nov. 3.—One of the best stories of the current year is being told of a farmer regarding the phenomenon among his sheep. Recently, he noted that the fleece of his sheep had turned a bright green color and he determined to trace the cause.

Investigation showed that the excessive rains of the past month had kept the wool of the flock so wet that when the sheep rubbed against a haystack, timothy hay seed had fallen upon the backs of the sheep, lodged there and had been germinated by the moisture.

The damp wool afforded a good spot for the seed and young timothy sprouts were found growing out of the wool, hence the green sheep.

"I have a hundred acres of wheat land. Suppose I offered it to you. The land might have been in my family seventy-five years. Would you ask me what the value of that land was at the time it was originally made into farm land? Could I easily find that out? And if I could, would it help you in determining its present day value? Not a bit. Your judgment of a fair price for the land would not be influenced by what it was worth when my grandfather homesteaded it.

"You have exactly the same situation in a stock. The par value is simply a price on it at a certain time. It represents the price at the time the property was originally devoted to its present corporate use. It is interesting but val-

By Jack O'Donnell

The immigration laws are playing havoc with the domestic labor market. Cooks in Gotham are as scarce as hair on a plate glass window. A good cook for a family of three commands—and gets—anywhere from $60 to $120 a month. If they "live in" they'll "accept" ten to 15 percent less.

A friend of mine—the lucky stiff!—found an Alsatian woman the other day who asked only $45 a month and found. She's been on the job a week now and here's what my friend reports: "She's God's gift to a distracted household. Can cook like Oscar (the Waldorf Astoria chef), keeps the house clean as a Dutch housewife's kitchen, loves the kid, and can toss up a wheat cake that would melt in your mouth. There's a catch in it somewhere which neither my wife nor I have yet discovered; meantime we're making the best of it. We're living in a fool's paradise, holding our breath and keeping our fingers crossed."

Eleventh Avenue is called "Death Avenue." It got its name from the number of persons killed down there by New York Central trains which switch up and down the middle of the thoroughfare. Here, after dark, horsemen may be seen riding with red lanterns in their hands.

Strolling through Bleeker Street the other day I chanced upon the former dwelling place of Thomas Paine, who championed the Colonists in the American Revolution. The house number is 293. Here it was that Paine wrote Rights of Man and Age of Reason. Bleeker Street in the days of Paine must have differed greatly from the Bleeker Street of today. Now it is dingy and terribly noisy, certainly not the sort of spot conducive to such literary work as Paine turned out.

The treasures of the monetary giants of New York are jealously guarded.

Pass along East Thirty-sixth St., any night after dark and you will see in front of the Morgan Library, a white marble building between Park and Madison Avenues, three stalwart men who rarely take their eyes off the entrance of the library except when they make their trips to the rear and sides of the building.

Give a burglar fifteen minutes inside that building and he could gather a huge fortune into his kit.

This section of New York, incidentally, is rapidly changing from an exclusive residential section to a busy business district. In Revolutionary days it was just a farm—the Robert Murray farm. Here it was—in the Murray home which then stood near the spot that is now Thirty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue—that Mrs. Murray, noted as one of the most quick-witted women of her day, saved the American forces a great loss by detaining General Howe while our troops marched to Harlem Heights. When Howe stopped to inquire how long since our soldiers had passed Mrs. Murray knowing they had just marched by, quickly replied: "Two hours ago," and then bringing refreshments she entertained the English so delightfully the yllingered long enough to give the Colonials a chance to reach the Heights.

Today's Talk

PUBLIC OPINION

Samuel Butler once got out a book which was called his "Note Book." In it he jotted down any thought that came to him. These notations probably comprise the most unusual and originally expressed ideas and thoughts ever put together. Here is one on "Public Opinion."

"The public buys its opinions as it buys its meat, or takes in its milk, on the principle that it is cheaper to do this than to keep a cow. So it is, but the milk is more likely to be watered."

Public opinion is a strange commodity. It is supposed to be the composite expression of all the people, or rather what this mass of people believe or think. But this isn't true. As a rule, public opinion is merely the shadow of what the mass of people think they believe.

The crowd usually follows the outlined expression of a few who are able enough to make them think or believe that all are of the same opinion. And so the world jogs merrily along.

Most people go through their days on borrowed, or made-over ideas and opinions. They accept without thinking.

The real thinkers in the world are in a paltry minority and always will be.

If each of us thought for himself, and did this honestly, the whole groundwork of society would be wrecked over night! For the first thing we would do would be

Modish Mitzi "MONEY IS TO SPEND NOT TO CARRY," SAYS MITZI Jay V. Jay

Thirty, forty, fifty—well, it's all there. (Catch a cashier making a mistake anyway.) But Mitzi notices that her pocket book is not as new as it once was. She might just as well take the cash in hand and go hunting for a purse. When you have money you just do have to have something decent to carry it in.

The question is which? The one with the zigzag lines to it? It's made of a metallic colored leather. Or the one of pigskin with the edges bound with leather strips? Mitzi's considering her costume, of course, in the selection of her bag. It must be effective from an ensemble viewpoint.

Mitzi is buying bags right and left. The black silk with the gold braid will go with her military dress. The pouch bag the saleslady is showing will do for her dolman sleeve coat. And perhaps she really ought to take the pocket book with the tab fastening because it would suit almost anything.

It's of ponyskin. Trimmed with a black suede. It's so new that Mitzi can't resist it and well, yes, she'll take it please. Now that she has paid for all these pocket books she will have nothing to keep in them but a handkerchief. But then she argues if you have a good looking bag you don't need anything to go in it.

CENTRAL HIGH GRIDDERS HOPE TO BREAK JINX AT SPRINGFIELD

Have Won From Clark County School Only Three Times In Sixteen Years—Rooters To Accompany Eleven

Still reeling from the unexpected blow delivered by Withrow High School last weekend but not in the least disheartened, Central High School is girding itself for the supreme test of the season in the hand to hand struggle with its familiar enemy, Springfield, Thursday afternoon.

Central has demonstrated enough power to win five out of six games this year and local fans hope to see the eleven rise to new heights in the renewal of the moss-hung rivalry Thursday.

Coach Vic Kolb has surveyed the wreckage of the Withrow struggle and finds few casualties in the debris. All the boys are in the "pink" so to speak and if physical perfection counts for anything, Xenia should record its first victory on the gridiron over Springfield since the championship team of 1922. Xenia has won from Springfield three times. The first time in 1910, 29 to 0, then came a lapse of eleven years and Central won in 1921 and 1922. Since that year the victory side of the ledger has been fearfully blank.

Springfield and Xenia are to try conclusions Thursday instead of Friday because of the state-wide teachers' meeting at Columbus, Friday and Saturday.

Coach Charles Taylor, Springfield, has a fair eleven this year but is depending almost entirely on Adams, a halfback, to stop the invaders. Adams is the real star of the team and it is seldom this lad does not rise to the occasion when a substantial gain is needed.

A large delegation of Xenia rooters intends to accompany the squad to Springfield and extend at least the old collegiate try in an effort to cheer the team on to its sixth victory.

Central High P. T. A. is sponsoring a movement to take a greater part of the student body to the game and provide transportation facilities. Members and honorary members are asked to furnish automobile conveyance.

The contest gets under way at 2:30 p. m.

PRESIDENT SILENT ON VOTING RESULT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—President Coolidge arose early today to get returns from the election.

He asked for detailed reports to show whether the Republicans had lost control either of the senate or the house.

It was said at the White House that no statement on the elections would be forthcoming from the president. There was no disguising, however, the keen disappointment felt at the White House over the defeat of Mr. Coolidge's friend and campaign manager, Senator Wm. M. Butler, in Massachusetts.

A White House official expressed satisfaction over the control retained in the house by the Republicans. This official pointed out that the test of national strength between Republicans and Democrats lay in the vote for house members rather than the senate, because every seat in the house was at stake, while but a little more than one-third of the senate was up for election.

RURAL VOTE HELPS SMITH IN ILLINOIS
CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—George Brennan, Democrat, was leading Frank L. Smith, Republican, by 2,829 votes in Cook County with all but seventy-nine of the 2,719 precincts completed, but returns from downstate counties, which are heavily Smith, are expected to wipe out this lead, with at least 50,000 to spare.

WET REFERENDUMS WIN IN TEN STATES

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—American prohibition suffered a staggering defeat in Tuesday's elections wherever the wet-and-dry issue finally was submitted to a direct vote of millions of people.

By voting wet on state referendums and through the election of wet candidates to the senate, incomplete returns today revealed that ten states went on record as voicing a protest against the dry law. The protest raised, incidentally, was the expression of a majority opinion from the electorate representing more than 35,000,000 in population.

From New York to California, the country, apparently, was swept by a wave of protest against the restrictions of the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment. The revolt was led by New York, which rolled up a majority of more than 1,000,000 votes for a wet referendum and which sent a "dripping wet" Democrat to the United States senate.

PARTIES DIVIDE OKLAHOMA, KANSAS
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 3.—Returns from Kansas and Oklahoma were decided today as latest figures revealed the Democrats had gained a senatorial seat in Oklahoma and the Republicans had retained one in Kansas.

Senator John W. Harrell, Republican, Oklahoma, was defeated by Elmer Thomas, Democrat.

Senator Charles Curtis, Kansas, Republican senate leader, was returned victor over C. S. Stephens, Democrat.

Henry S. Johnston, Democrat, was elected governor of Oklahoma over Omer K. Benedict, Republican.

Former Governor Ben S. Paulin, Republican, won the governorship of Kansas by at least 70,000 votes.

Texas went traditionally Democratic, electing Dan Moody, attorney general, to the chair now held by Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas's first woman governor.

BROOKHART RIDES BACK TO VICTORY
DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 3.—Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, who was ousted from the senate a few months ago, rode back today on the crest of a Republican wave, incomplete returns showed today.

Brookhart had a lead of more than 50,000 over Claude W. Porter, Democrat, and his followers said this would be increased to 75,000 when the rest of the votes are in.

The Republicans also made a clean sweep in the eleven congressional districts and the state ticket came through without an upset for the Republicans, returns show.

Here's my smoke-platform

A JIMMY-PIPE with an ample bowl. A tobacco that is mild and mellow, yet not "mollycoddle," if you get me—and you do. You know what I mean . . . mild, yet with plenty of body to let you know you are smoking. A tobacco that smokes cool.

A tobacco that is fragrant in the package, to whet the appetite, and equally fragrant as you smoke it. A tobacco that does not bite the tongue or parch the throat. A tobacco so wonderfully satisfying that you are kept busy smoking and reloading, all day long.

There's only one tobacco in the whole wide world that I know of which meets this platform. Its name is "Prince Albert" and I claim it really is the prince of smokes. More men smoke this tobacco than any other brand, which is important and likewise true.

If you are still outside the fold of contented jimmy-pipers, buy a tidy red tin of P. A. today. No matter how satisfied you appear to be with your present brand, try Prince Albert. I promise you a smoke-experience that will be new and delightfully different.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

The Girl Who Dared

By May Christie

CHAPTER 45

THE DENOUEMENT

At half-past eleven the following morning, Mary waited in the garden of the hacienda while the doctors, in Luella's room upstairs, were taking off the bandages. Bees hummed among the flowers. The scents of summer drifted, poignantly sweet. Then a call came, sharp, staccato. Mary hurried toward the house, a prayer for poor Luella on her lips. "Go in!" The nurse was beckoning to her. Mary crossed the threshold of Luella's room, afraid that she might see the doctors. The doctors stood beside the bed. Luella was propped up on the pillows, a hand-mirror held before her face. "Now here's your friend, dear," said the nurse. Luella dropped the mirror, and Mary—her breath catching in her throat—saw that only the girl's neck and a portion of her chin were visible, and that her features were as delicately lovely as before!

from me again. The past is all forgiven and forgotten, isn't it, Luella girl? He glanced down at the black band on his arm. Her gaze followed his. "But—it's too soon!" She thought of Philip. That blazing diamond on her finger made his image fade considerably. "I can't wait any longer." The Australian was dogged and determined. "I'm going to buy a yacht—the most luxurious in Cuba—and take you cruising, and see the color coming into that white face of yours. Oh, Luella, I'm going to go to you, Luella. You won't have a care in this wide world. I swear you won't. You love me, don't you dear?" She hesitated. She might as well give in. But what would Philip think and say? John Rogers suddenly remarked with a wide grin: "That Forrest girl and young Philip Andover are in love with one another. As I came up the avenue, I saw them in the garden, holding hands. And the look on their faces! Oh! they're crazy about each other!" Luella drew in a sharp, astonished breath. "You're sure of that? Quite sure?" "Oh, certain! Don't let them lead you on. Let's announce our engagement tonight, and astonish everybody!" She looked down on her ring, the stone so huge, so utterly magnificent. "It would be fun." She was really fond of Rogers. She had thought that she had lost him—hadn't got his letters—so, hysterically she'd turned to Philip (so she told herself) fearing a future all alone, disfigured. But everything was different now. She wanted Rogers—and his money. She would grab him, while she could.

Keep Hair Tidy, Glossy, Wavy

By Edna Wallace Hopper
One of the best things experts ever made for me is a new-type hair dress. I call it my Wave and Sheen. It keeps hair as you wish it. If you wish fluffy hair like mine, just comb it backward and the fluff will stay. If you wish waves or curls, use combs or fingers in the usual way, and the curl will stay. If you have a Marcel wave, my Wave and Sheen will keep it. Or it keeps hair sleek and smooth for those who want it, without stickiness or grease. It will delight you, whatever your idea on hair dress. It gives a luster, enhances the color. It keeps the hair in any style you like. All toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen under guarantee. The price is 75c. You will never go without it when you see what it means to your hair.

CHILDREN OF XENIANS FOLLOW PARENTS' STEPS; VOTE G. O. P.

Following the lead of Greene County, one of the party strongholds in Ohio, students of Central Junior and Senior High Schools piled up handsome majorities for Republican local, district and state candidates in a straw vote taken at the school Tuesday, election day. Contrary to the trend, the students favored the proposal to amend the state constitution and alter the direct primary law by a vote of almost three to one, while the plan to create a county library district was given an overwhelming majority. The opposition vote was practically negligible.

Approximately 550 votes were cast. The straw vote taken was the most comprehensive ever attempted at the school. The building was divided into three wards, each home room designated as a precinct and election officials were appointed. Following students were chosen as election officials of the eight precincts: First Ward, Precinct A—Smith, Dean, Imbler and Davidson; Precinct B—Hurley, Hagler, Benbow and McCallister; Precinct C—Hardy, Jones, Higgins and Clemens. Second Ward: Precinct A—Lickliter, Bull, Bracilin and Chambliss; Precinct B—Wright, Whittington, McKay and Dean; Precinct C—Huston, Glass, Marshall and Rountzong. Precinct D—Beacham, Hayward, Leinberger, Lorimer. Third Ward: Precinct A—Schaeffer, Wagner, Weingart and Schweibold. The vote for all candidates and issues follows:

WILLIS AND DONAHEY WIN IN OHIO

Republicans To Control Senate By Narrow Margin

COUNTY VOTE LIGHT; GOWDY MADE JUDGE

LATEST REPORTS CUT DONAHEY'S LEAD BUT SWELL WILLIS VOTE

"Victory Approves Party Principles", Says Senator—Entire Republican Ticket Wins Except Cooper

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—Returns from 7,922 precincts announced this afternoon showed Governor Vic Donahey with a margin of 16,819 over his Republican opponent, Myers Y. Cooper. The vote was:

Donahey, 637,425; Cooper, 620,606.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—The lead of Governor Donahey, Democratic candidate for a third term, over Myers Y. Cooper, Republican, was cut to less than 10,000 on the face of unofficial returns tabulated from 7,605 of the state's total of 8,649 precincts today. The tabulation showed:

Donahey, 606,892; Cooper, 598,348.

Donahey's lead—3,544 votes.

The same precincts gave: Pomerene, 556,587; Willis, 615,091.

Figures given out at 7 a. m. by the office of the secretary of state showing Donahey with a lead of more than 50,000 votes over Cooper, with almost a million votes accounted for, were later declared to contain many errors and were hastily recalled.

In the race for United States senator, Frank B. Willis, Republican incumbent, had a commanding lead over former Senator Atlee Pomerene and there was apparently no possibility of the Democratic candidate overcoming this advantage.

"The victory indicated by the returns thus far received places Ohio's stamp of approval on the achievements and policies of the Republican party in the last five years under the leadership of Presidents Harding and Coolidge," said Senator Willis.

"The contest was a trial of strength between the principles and policies of the Republican and Democratic parties. I am personally grateful to all those who have given me their support.

NOVELIST DEFENDS MODERN GIRL IN SERIAL STARTING TOMORROW

"A woman who smokes will do anything."

It is that sort of chance remark, overheard at a dinner party, which prompted Beatrice Burton's latest serial, "Honey Lou," which begins in this paper tomorrow.

Miss Burton should need no introduction to newspaper readers. Unquestionably the greatest writer of newspaper fiction, she belies the old-world idea that beauty and brains never go together. Young, and possessed of a vitality which accentuates her loveliness, it would seem that Miss Burton not only had her cake but is eating it as well.

"My latest story, 'Honey Lou,' is about the girl who smokes, paints, Charleston and gives every indication of being wild, but who, in reality, is fine underneath and eminently respectable. In contrast with her character, I have pictured the other girl in the story as looking like a saint and acting—well, very differently."

Miss Burton, who in private life is Mrs. Beatrice Morgan, says that people will simply have to get over associating immorality with the

DEMOCRATS ATTAIN SEVEN SEATS WHILE G. O. P. SELECTS 21

Defeat Of Butler And Wadsworth Most Notable

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The Democrats have emerged from the off-year elections with a notable series of triumphs.

The biennial political pendulum swung hard against the Republicans; so hard that it almost, if not quite, lost them control of the senate and hard enough that it materially reduced their working majority in the house.

The administration, it appeared today, with several states still in doubt, can organize the senate of the next congress by the narrow margin of a single vote or not more than two.

While so scanty a margin is sufficient for organization purposes, it is not sufficient for actual control. That will be vested in a coalition of Democrats and Republican insurgents—whenever they care to exercise it.

The net gains for the Democrats in yesterday's balloting appears today to be seven seats in the senate and probably a dozen in the house.

The most notable and certain Democrat senatorial victories were won in New York and Massachusetts, and on the face of incomplete but representative returns, they also appear to have won senate seats in Maryland, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Missouri, and Arizona. Several other states, notably Oregon, and Indiana, have races sufficiently close as to be considered doubtful this morning.

President Coolidge has sustained probably the most severe loss of his lengthy political career in the defeat of his personal friend and campaign manager, Senator William Morgan Butler, in Massachusetts. Mr. Coolidge asked the voters of his home state to elect Butler to the senate and he traveled to Northampton yesterday by special train to vote for his friend and thus emphasize his desire to see Butler sent back to Washington.

Massachusetts responded to the White House appeal by electing Butler's Democratic opponent, ex-Senator David I. Walsh, by a majority that surprised even the hopeful Democratic managers. Walsh ran as an avowed opponent of the Volstead law; Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, as a dry.

What effect, if any, this blow to the president's prestige will have on the talk of Mr. Coolidge's "availability" for renomination in 1928 is a matter that was being

WASHINGTON ASTOUNDED BY RESULT OF ELECTION; BUTLER DEFEAT BITTER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Washington was astounded as it studied the election returns today.

It had been expected that the Democrats would make gains both in the senate and the house but it did not expect that the Democrats would roll up such sweeping majorities as they did in numerous states.

Consequently, there was joy at Democratic headquarters today and gloom at the Republicans.

Particularly bitter to the president was the defeat of his warm friend, Senator Butler in Massachusetts, by ex-Senator Walsh, Democrat.

Butler for the president did what he did for no other candidate—gave him a public endorsement. Besides he even went home to vote for Butler, but all to no avail.

After his return from Northampton, the president did not remain long to get returns. He made no public comment whatever last night.

BEAUTY IS HEROINE OF NEW SERIAL

This is "Honey Lou" Huntley, heroine of Beatrice Burton's latest serial story, "Honey Lou," which begins in this paper tomorrow. "Honey Lou's" beauty won for her a rich, devoted husband. It brought her the admiration and attention of his friends. Whether she can hold him is the question that this entrancing story will reveal in generous installments to be published daily.

FAMOUS HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL OPENS IN NEW JERSEY

Tense Interest And Excitement Greet Opening Of Case—Three Called Before Bar Of Justice On Old Death Charge

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 3.—An important page in American criminal history was being written in Somerville today—the opening day of the famous Hall-Mills murder trial.

The glare of the international spotlight was turned fully upon a tiny courtroom where an aristocratic, wealthy woman and her two brothers were to be brought to trial for the strange murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, of New Brunswick, N. J., and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, member of his church choir, who were shot to death in a "lovers' lane" on the night of September 14, 1922.

Long before the hour when Judge Charles W. Parker was formally to bring the accused trio before the bar of justice, the attractive white marble court house, set primly on a grassy hill overlooking the main street of Somerville, was afluster with excitement.

Photographers were rushing about "shooting" pictures of the principles in the "crime of the century." Over on Main Street, an enterprising radio expert was standing by the microphone ready to broadcast the news to the world.

At 10:15 a. m., Judge Charles W. Parker, seated in front of a huge American flag, formally summoned Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, before the bar of justice to answer to the charge of murder.

The clerk went through the formality of calling the twenty-nine names left on the "struck jury" list from which the trial jury is drawn. Some of them failed to answer. The panel was so meager that there was a possibility that the trial might be delayed through failure to obtain a jury from the list available.

State Senator Alex Simpson, the diminutive prosecutor who is handling the state's case virtually alone, went over the list of names available to the two judges.

Only two men ever won a three-time governorship of Ohio before Donahey. One of them was Rutherford B. Hayes, and he became president of the United States. The other was James M. Cox, and he

Pomerene Runs Behind Donahey Locally Vote Reveals

Judge Gets 1,100 Majority Over Dean For Re-Election

Returning to normalcy as one of the leading Republican strongholds in the state, Greene County's vote at the regular election Tuesday was the usual landslide for the Republicans.

The tabulated unofficial vote from all forty-seven precincts gave the entire Republican state ticket majorities ranging from 800 to 2,000.

Proposed constitutional amendment for abolition of the direct primary system of nominating candidates for public office was dealt a hard blow in this county. With one precinct missing, the proposal received an adverse vote of 3,588 to 1,853, almost two to one.

Myers Y. Cooper, Republican candidate for governor, was given a plurality of 2,200 over Vic Donahey, Democratic candidate to succeed himself as chief executive of Ohio, while Frank B. Willis, Republican candidate for re-election as senator, headed the state ticket, running nearly 3,000 votes ahead of Atlee Pomerene, former senator and his Democratic opponent.

In the race for attorney-general, Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield, Democrat, trailed Edward C. Turner, his Republican opponent, by 1,700 votes in this county.

THREE DEMOCRATIC GOVERNORS IN LINE FOR HIGHEST HONOR

Donahey, Smith and Ritchie Prove Good Vote Getters

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Out of the political wreckage and new construction that accompanied Tuesday's battle of the ballots there stood forth today three Democratic governors whose vote-getting propensities make it almost inevitable that they shall be candidates for the highest honor within their party in the presidential year of 1928. They are:

Governor Vic Donahey, of Ohio, just elected for his third term.

Governor Al Smith, of New York, elected for his fourth term.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, just elected for his third term.

Each is a smasher of precedents—and proved it yesterday at the polls. Each undoubtedly will have the solid backing of his state delegation in the Democratic national convention of 1928. Politicians regarded this today as a foregone conclusion.

No man has ever won a four-time governorship before Al Smith. Today the statisticians were trying to figure whether his plurality is 300,000 or 350,000.

No man has ever won a three-time governorship of Maryland before Albert C. Ritchie. As a smasher of precedents he ranks alongside the Tammany governor of New York.

Only two men ever won a three-time governorship of Ohio before Donahey. One of them was Rutherford B. Hayes, and he became president of the United States. The other was James M. Cox, and he

ISLANDS ELECT

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 3.—In complete returns from all the islands today indicated that Houston, Republican, a former commander in the navy, has defeated Jarrett, Democratic incumbent, for delegate to congress.

Lacking much opposition the entire Republican ticket in Greene County and for district and state offices was swept into office Tuesday on a wave of Republican votes that also saw Greene County citizens casting a substantial majority in favor of the proposed creation of a county library district in Greene County.

In the closest fight of local interest, Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy was returned to office for a second term of six years, piling up a majority of approximately 1,100 votes over Frank H. Dean, his nearest opponent, in a triangular factional fight that aroused great interest.

Dean ran second with George H. Thorne, Spring Valley, third. The former's showing was the surprise of the day since his vote was small.

NINE YEAR HONEYMOON TAKES MAN AND WIFE 275,000 MILES WITHOUT MONEY

By MARY BLADE

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Because they've never had enough money to "settle down" Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bartlett have been honeymooning for nine years. They don't know how much longer the honeymoon will continue, for they're on their way to Europe on another lap of it. Just after they were married, the husband asked the wife where she'd like to go for a honeymoon. She replied, "Oh, all over the world."

MR. AND MRS. FRANK BARTLETT

TO HOLD SERVICES

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—Every Methodist Protestant Church in Ohio will hold special services during November as a tribute to the superannuated ministers of the denomination and in memory of the widows of deceased pastors. The church is raising a special fund for the benefit of the retired ministers and the families of Methodist Protestant clergymen who had passed away. The months' services will terminate in a rally Thanksgiving Day, by which time it is expected the fund will have been completed. The campaign is under the direction of Rev. Frank Lawrence Brown, D. D. of Columbus, president of the Ohio conference. Rev. C. S. Johnson, D. D. of Pittsburgh, is secretary of the movement.

sphere they are now starting for the eastern side of the world. Their present plan is to travel through the British Isles, then take the rest of Europe, Africa and Asia in order. Mrs. Bartlett indicated that she'll be entirely ready to "settle down" when this jaunt is completed. "I like traveling this way," she said, "but it is getting awfully hard work. Settling down and doing my work in my own kitchen would seem very good to me." Their system, Bartlett explained is to work as they go, stopping just long enough at each place to save up enough money for the next lap of the trip. In the course of their trek they have washed dishes in the United States, herded cattle in Patagonia and mined diamonds in Brazil. When their long trip is over they intend to write a book about their travels and obtain enough money to get a start in a placid existence.

RECEPTION IN PIGUA

FOR MR. AND MRS. RIDENOUR
One of the most brilliant affairs of the Autumn in Pigua society was the reception given Friday evening at the Pigua Golf Club, by Mr. Harry Bell, Mr. Clarence Jones and Mr. Stanton Tafel, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franklin Ridenour, who arrived home last week from New York City and whose wedding was an interesting recent event.

The reception was held in the lounge which was transformed for the occasion into a gorgeous Autumnal setting. Festoons of richly shaded oak leaves adorned the walls and mantle while the side lights were shaded with large yellow paper hearts through which were thrust white arrows. The bridal idea was evidenced in the decoration of the chandeliers which were covered by white paper wedding bells from which fell a shower of yellow and white baby chrysanthemums on streamers of white satin. In the receiving line were the hosts, Messrs. Bell, Jones and Tafel and the honor guests, Mrs. Ridenour was beautifully attired in her wedding gown of white Duchesse satin with traceries of glistering crystals and pearls. She wore a corsage bouquet of delicate pink roses and tiny white chrysanthemums.

Harold Greenmeyer's orchestra played during the reception. Dancing began at 10 o'clock. In the dining room, the color scheme of yellow and white was carried out with a huge centerpiece of yellow and white baby chrysanthemums on the bride's table. Quantities of bloom, with lighted tapers decorated the smaller tables. A two course supper was served.

HALLOWE'EN SPIRIT PREVAILS TUESDAY AT CARNIVAL HERE

The combined hilarious spirit of Halloween and interest in the election resulted in a successful gala celebration on Xenia streets, sponsored by Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and Xenia Municipal Band, Tuesday night.

The Halloween celebration was postponed from Saturday until Tuesday night on account of rain the first night, and the arrival of election returns at the hour set for the start of the celebration attracted hundreds.

Streets in the business section were lined with hilarious merry-makers. The parade, the main feature of the program, was staged at 8 o'clock, the line of march starting at the Post Office and traversing the main business section. Participants in the parade lined up before the judges stand in front of the Court House, where a committee of judges from the three sponsoring organizations gave prizes, donated by Xenia merchants. Names of the prize winners were not learned by the judges. A couple in tar and feathers costume, won first prize.

Music was furnished preceding during and after the parade by the Municipal Band. Revelers disbanded after the march and the majority of merry-makers attended a dance at the Knight of Pythias Hall.

LIBRARY PROPOSAL CARRIES: VOTERS DECIDE ON BOND ISSUES

Proposed creation of a county library district in Greene County was regarded favorably by the electorate Tuesday, the measure carrying by a majority of approximately 800 votes. The vote was: Yes, 4,211; No, 3,491 according to latest unofficial returns from forty of forty one precincts balloting on the proposal.

Sugarcreek and Cedarville Twp., and Bellbrook are excepted from the vote having declined to consider being recognized in the district because of local libraries to support it is said.

Yellow Springs voters defeated the proposed $60,000 bond issue to provide for a municipal waterworks plant by thirty votes. The vote was: Yes, 271; No, 301. Result of the vote in Fairfield on a $40,000 bond issue for a similar purpose, was not available.

Four out of five proposed tax levies for school purposes, serving as leading local issues in five townships over the county, were carried, reports indicate. Measures place before voters of Cedarville Twp., Jamestown village, Bath Twp. and Yellow Springs, were accorded handsome majorities. Only in Ross Twp. did a school levy receive an adverse vote, the measure losing out by six votes.

Supporters of the plan to create a county library district were elated because of the outcome of the election Tuesday. Passage of the proposal places the county library under the annual budget, increases its annual income from $3,000 to approximately $8,000 and paves the way for extending book service to all parts of the county.

COUNTY APATHETIC ON TUESDAY VOTING

Armed with ballots, campaign literature and election promises, Greene Countians dropped business connections long enough to charge the polls on election day.

It was literally a charge of the light brigade for never before has voting been such a slump in Greene County.

The total estimated vote dropped off one-third from the vote two years ago for the same type of an election and political leaders are unable to account for the anomaly upon the part of the electorate.

The estimated Republican vote exceeded the Democratic vote by less than a two to one margin.

Tabulation of the unofficial returns will probably be completed by officials of the board of elections Wednesday because of the light vote and the fact straight ticket voting was greatly in evidence.

FLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE HERE

Arrested by Dayton authorities and returned to Xenia Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff George Spencer on a warrant sworn out by Gordon Bros., garage, Robert Miller, Dayton, pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving a car while intoxicated before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Wednesday morning.

His hearing is set for Tuesday morning, November 16. He was released after providing bond.

His arrest was the outgrowth of an auto accident on the Dayton and Xenia Pike more than a week ago.

CHAIRMAN PLEASED WITH VOTE TUESDAY

In a formal statement made Wednesday, County Auditor R. O. Wead, as chairman and spokesman for the Republican Executive Committee, expressed gratification concerning the overwhelming Republican vote in Greene County at the Tuesday election.

It is an indication, he said, that the Republican organization in this county, separated somewhat by factional differences, united for the party's cause to bring about a great Republican victory Tuesday.

Auditor Wead remarked that the trend of the vote indicates the county has returned to the ranks of all-Republican counties. Whereas two years ago Governor Mc Donahy carried Greene County by nearly 200 votes over his Republican opponent, marking the first departure from Republican ranks in many years, this election all Republican nominees were given majorities ranging from 800 to 2,000, the chairman declares.

WHAT DOES HE MEAN?

Mother arises in the morning, gets breakfast for father and the children, gets the children off to school and father off to work. Father spends the day earning money. Mother spends it sewing, mending, washing, ironing, preparing lunch for the children, seeing that they are clean as they go back to school, supervising their play and study after school, correcting what she considers injurious habits, checking up on bad grammar and bad manners, getting and serving dinner.

When father comes home, he plays his part in the family life. He consults with the children about school problems, lays down the law with authority on points where mother thinks she has not been sufficiently impressive, and adds the weight of his words in seeing that next day's school work is prepared and finally in getting the reluctant youngsters to go to bed.

At last a few minutes at peace. Mother picks up the evening paper and reads:

"The home is the weakest spot in America's social fabric of today," Dr. W. A. Tretten, professor of psychology in Toledo University, declared. Its influence should be much greater than it is. We should be forced to work out our domestic problems instead of sidestepping them."

It puzzles mother. She doesn't quite see what more she could have done. She reads the item to father. He is equally in the dark.

WELLS MAY VISIT CALIFORNIA

The news dispatches inform us that H. G. Wells, the English writer who gained notoriety on account of historical writings, however inaccurate they may be, and who has recently gained more criticism because of his reference to the English king as "a worthy, conscientious, entirely unmeaning and uninteresting son of plump old Edward," is contemplating a visit to California this winter. It is stated that Wells is sixty years of age and that he "feels the damp, foggy English winter." Well, now, we know just what part of California he should visit. If he cannot find enough damp foggy weather in San Francisco he might come down to San Jose, where the fog is often so dense in winter that you almost lose yourself in trying to get down town, and where, unless you cover up your clothes at night you will have to wring the dampness out of them in the morning before you put them on. Again, it is said, Wells has criticised Royalty for doing so much traveling, "expensively" and returning "ridiculously empty." Should he come to America to spend the winter in California, or any other of our winter resorts he no doubt will change his mind about the "expense" part of traveling and whether or not he returns home with any more in his head than when he came, it is assured his purse will be "ridiculously empty" if he stays long enough.

CANNOT MAKE RETRIBUTION

Out of the horrors of war is that no reparations can ever fully repay for the damage done. Remorse may punish the perpetrator of an evil deed, but it never repays for the injury inflicted. Especially is this true when it has involved the death or maiming of another, as always happens in war. Since the admission of Germany to the League, a more friendly feeling has sprung up between the Germans and the French. This not only applies to them as nations but as individuals. The other day a German who was a soldier in the World War did up a package containing silver spoons, knives and forks, and sent them to the mayor of a small French village. He had stolen them during the war, but his conscience bothered him and he decided to return them. The sad part about the whole affair is that he may be unable to find the real owner. Perhaps he lies under the sod, a victim of a German bomb. The silverware may be returned in as good condition as when taken, but the lives of the men lost in the battles are gone. They cannot be restored.

There are two kinds of offenses—those which can be atoned for and those which cannot. Was is of the latter kind. Remorse may gnaw forever but it can never make restitution in kind.

BIG SUM FOR OPERA BOX

Just the other day we mentioned the growing interest among the middle classes in Chicago in grand opera. It was stated there that railroad employes, bank clerks and public utility employes are buying grand opera tickets, where before only bankers, professors and society folks patronized these entertainments. Now comes the information that an opera box in New York has been sold for $200,000. At that rate not many railroad men, clerks or public utility employes would be patronizing the opera. And not many college professors either. But in fairness it should be stated that the owner of this box, will share in the profits of the company owning the building. He gets a thirty-fifth interest in all the profits, as well as the use of the box. So he is not paying so much for the privilege of hearing the music as for the dividends he hopes to receive.

"Par Value" Often A Meaningless Term.

"I've owned a So-and-So car several years and I'm thinking of buying some of the stock. What is the par value?"

The speaker was a middle-aged man. He was talking to a security dealer.

"The stock is no par, but what difference does that make?" said the dealer. "Almost every one who asks me about stock asks that same question. I'll answer you in such a manner that you not only won't ask me that question again, also that you won't care what the par value of any stock is."

"I have a hundred acres of wheat land. Suppose I offered it to you. The land might have been in my family seventy-five years. Would you ask me what the value of that land was at the time it was originally made into farm land? Could I easily find that out? And if I could, would it help you in determining its present day value? Not a bit. Your judgment of a fair price for the land would not be influenced by what it was worth when my grandfather homesteaded it."

"You have exactly the same situation in a stock. The par value is simply a price on it at a certain time. It represents the price at the time the property was originally devoted to its present corporate use. It is interesting but val-

ANOTHER ACCOUNT OF OLD CHILLICOTHE

Three miles north of Xenia is the old Indian town of Chillicothe, now Old Town, on the Little Miami River.

Of its history much has been written and much has been lost. It was one of the most noted villages, historically speaking, in the state; made so by the many scenes of suffering by torture of the white race at the hands of the savages; the birthplace of the noted chief of the Shawnee tribe of Indians, Tecumseh; the temporary prison of these grand old pioneers from Kentucky, Daniel Boone and Simon Kenton and many others less known in history, who were captured and carried there as prisoners.

We read of their sufferings at the hands of their captors, of their courage and escapes and their heroism in behalf of the beautiful land, but often it is forgotten what it cost to reclaim it from wilderness and the labor it took to make it bloom and blossom like a rose as it is today.

It is said to have had a population of 1,100 Indians. About 300 of these were fighting men. The village was a quarter of a mile in length, the huts being set out irregularly. The location of most of the huts was on the little eminence now covered by the school house, frame house, barn, an orchard on the left side of the road going north. The commonest Indians had their huts along the creek bank.

The council house was near where the school house now stands. It was a long narrow building, roughly made and hardly water proof. When Girty and the renegade Scotchman, Dixon, came to live with Chief Blackfish, they helped to construct a better council house. Remains of the council house, such as rotten timbers, stood until 1840.

TIMOTHY GROWS ON BACKS OF SHEEP

SEDALIA, O., Nov. 3.—One of the best stories of the current year is being told of a farmer regarding the phenomenon among his sheep.

Recently, he noted that the fleece of his sheep had turned a bright green color and he determined to trace the cause.

Investigation showed that the excessive rains of the past month had kept the wool of the flock so wet that when the sheep rubbed against a haystack, timothy hay seed had fallen upon the backs of the sheep, lodged there and had been germinated by the moisture.

The damp wool afforded a good spot for the seed and young timothy sprouts were found growing out of the wool, hence the green sheep.

East Side - West Side

OF
New York
By Jack O'Donnell

The immigration laws are playing havoc with the domestic labor market. Cooks in Gotham are as scarce as hair on a plate glass window. A good cook for a family of three, commands—and gets—anywhere from $80 to $120 a month. If they "live in" they'll "accept" ten to 15 percent less.

A friend of mine—the lucky stiff!—found an Alsatian woman the other day who asked only $45 a month and found. She's been on the job a week now and here's what my friend reports:

"She's God's gift to a distracted household. Can cook like Oscar (the Waldorf Astoria chef), keeps the house clean as a Dutch housewife's kitchen, loves the kid, and can toss up a wheat cake that would melt in your mouth. There's a catch in it somewhere which neither my wife nor I have yet discovered; meantime we're making the best of it. We're living in a fool's paradise, holding our breath and keeping our fingers crossed."

Eleventh Avenue is called "Death Avenue." It got its name from the number of persons killed down there by New York Central trains which switch up and down the middle of the thoroughfare. Here, after dark, horsemen may be seen riding with red lanterns in their hands.

Strolling through Bleeker Street the other day I chanced upon the former dwelling place of Thomas Paine, who championed the Colonists in the American Revolution. The house number is 293. Here it was that Paine wrote Rights of Man and Age of Reason.

Bleeker Street in the days of Paine must have differed greatly from the Bleeker Street of today. Now it is dingy and terribly noisy, certainly not the sort of spot conducive to such literary work as Paine turned out.

The treasures of the monetary giants of New York are jealously guarded.

Pass along East Thirty-sixth St., any night after dark and you will see in front of the Morgan Library, a white marble building between Park and Madison Avenues, three eyes of the entrance of the library except when they make their trips to the rear and sides of the building.

Give a burglar fifteen minutes inside that building and he could gather a huge fortune into his kit.

This section of New York, incidentally, is rapidly changing from an exclusive residential section to a busy business district. In Revolutionary days it was just a farm—the Robert Murray farm. Here it was—in the Murray home which then stood near the spot that is now Thirty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue—that Mrs. Murray, noted as one of the most quick-witted women of her day, saved the American forces a great loss by detaining General Howe while our troops marched to Harlem Heights. When Howe stopped to inquire how long since our soldiers had passed Mrs. Murray knowing they had just marched by, quickly replied: "Two hours ago," and then bringing refreshments she entertained the English so delightfully the yllinger long enough to give the Colonials a chance to reach the Heights.

Today's Talk

Samuel Butler once got out a book which was called his "Note Book." In it he jotted down any thought that came to him. These notations probably comprise the most unusual and originally expressed ideas and thoughts ever put together. Here is one on "Public Opinion."

"The public buys its opinions as it buys its meat or takes in its milk, on the principle that it is cheaper to do this than to keep a cow. So it is, but the milk is more likely to be watered."

Public opinion is a strange commodity. It is supposed to be the composite expression of all the people, or rather what this mass of people believe or think. But this isn't true. As a rule, public opinion is merely the shadow of what the mass of people think they believe.

The crowd usually follows the outlined expression of a few who are able enough to make them think or believe that all are of the same opinion. And so the world jogs merrily along.

Most people go through their days on borrowed, or made-over ideas and opinions. They accept without thinking.

The real thinkers in the world are in a paltry minority and always will be.

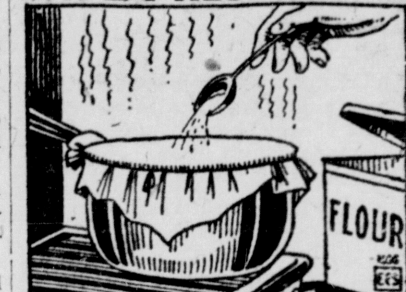

If each of us thought for himself, and did this honestly, the whole groundwork of society would be wrecked over night! For the first thing we would do would be to dump the rubbish inherited from the ages.

Samuel Butler was a very good man. He was kind and generous and let people take advantage of his good nature. But he kept right on jotting down the actual things he thought, as he thought them. He was a very great man. William Lyon Phelps and "Bob" Davis say that his book "The Way of All Flesh," is the greatest written in a hundred years. I have read the book and quite agree, though I am not a very good judge, having read so few novels during the last hundred years.

But when you have read Butler you feel like saying a few things—and writing them down—that you have stored in your mind for a long time.

WIFE PRESERVERS

When you have put too much salt in cooking food, stretch a clean cloth tightly over the kettle, sprinkle a tablespoon of flour over the cloth, and let the kettle steam a minute. The flour will absorb the surplus salt.

Modish Mitzi "MONEY IS TO SPEND NOT TO CARRY," SAYS MITZI Jay V. Jay

Thirty, forty, fifty—well, it's all there. (Catch a cashier making a mistake anyway.) But Mitzi notices that her pocket book is not as new as it once was. She might just as well take the cash in hand and go hunting for a purse. When you have money you just do have to have something decent to carry it in.

The question is which? The one with the ziggy lines to it? It's made of a metallic colored leather. Or the one of pigskin with the edges bound with leather strips? Mitzi's considering her costume, of course, in the selection of her bag. It must be effective from an ensemble viewpoint.

Mitzi is buying bags right and left. The black silk with the gold braid will go with her military dress. The pouch bag the saleslady is showing will do for her dolman sleeve coat. And perhaps she really ought to take the pocket book with the tab fastening because it would suit almost anything.

It's of ponyskin. Trimmed with a black suede. It's so new that Mitzi can't resist it and well, yes, she'll take it please. Now that she has paid for all these pocket books she will have nothing to keep in them but a handkerchief. But then she argues if you have a good looking bag you don't need anything to go in it.

CENTRAL HIGH GRIDDERS HOPE TO BREAK JINX AT SPRINGFIELD

Have Won From Clark County School Only Three Times In Sixteen Years—Rooters To Accompany Eleven

Still reeling from the unexpected blow delivered by Withrow High School last weekend but not in the least disheartened, Central High School is girding itself for the supreme test of the season in the hand to hand struggle with its familiar enemy, Springfield, Thursday afternoon.

Central has demonstrated enough power to win five out of six games this year and local fans hope to see the eleven rise to new and seldom-reached heights in the renewal of the moss-hung rivalry Thursday.

PRESIDENT SILENT ON VOTING RESULT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—President Coolidge arose early today to get returns from the election.

He asked for detailed reports to show whether the Republicans had lost control either of the senate or the house.

It was said at the White House that no statement on the elections would be forthcoming from the president. There was no disguising, however, the keen disappointment felt at the White House over the defeat of Mr. Coolidge's friend and campaign manager, Senator Wm. M. Butler, in Massachusetts.

RURAL VOTE HELPS SMITH IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—George Brennan, Democrat, was leading Frank L. Smith, Republican, by $2,829 votes in Cook County with all but seventy-nine of the 2,719 precincts completed, but returns from downstate counties, which are heavily Smith, are expected to wipe out this lead, with at least 50,000 to spare.

shio team of 1922. Xenia has won from Springfield three times. The first time in 1910, 29 to 0, then came a lapse of eleven years and Central won in 1921 and 1922. Since that year the victory side of the ledger has been fearfully blank.

Springfield and Xenia are to try conclusions Thursday instead of Friday because of the statewide teachers' meeting at Columbus, Friday and Saturday.

Coach Charles Taylor, Springfield, has a fair eleven this year but is depending almost entirely on Adams, a halfback, to stop the invaders. Adams is the real star of the team and it is seldom this lad does not rise to the occasion when a substantial gain is needed.

A large delegation of Xenia rooters intends to accompany the squad to Springfield and extend at least the old collegiate try in an effort to cheer the team on to its sixth victory.

Central High P. T. A. is sponsoring a movement to take a greater part of the student body to the game and provide transportation facilities. Members and honorary members are asked to furnish automobile conveyance.

The contest gets under way at 2:30 p. m.

WET REFERENDUMS WIN IN TEN STATES

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—American prohibition suffered a staggering defeat in Tuesday's elections where, ever the wet-and-dry issue finally was submitted to a direct vote of millions of people.

By voting wet on state referendums and through the election of wet candidates to the senate, incomplete returns today revealed that ten states went on record as voting a protest against the dry law. The protest raised, incidentally was the expression of a majority opinion from the electorate representing more than 35,000,000 in population.

From New York to California, the country, apparently, was swept by a wave of protest against the restrictions of the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment. The revolt was led by New York, which rolled up a majority of more than 1,000,000 votes for a wet referendum and which sent a "dripping wet" Democrat to the United States senate.

PARTIES DIVIDE OKLAHOMA, KANSAS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 3.—Returns from Kansas and Oklahoma were decisive today as latest figures revealed the Democrats had gained a senatorial seat in Oklahoma and the Republicans had retained one in Kansas.

Senator John W. Harrell, Republican, Oklahoma, was defeated by Elmer Thomas, Democrat.

Senator Charles Curtis, Kansas, Republican senate leader, was returned victor over C. S. Stephens, Democrat.

Henry S. Johnston, Democrat, was elected governor of Oklahoma over Omer K. Benedict, Republican.

Former Governor Ben S. Paulin, Republican, won the governorship of Kansas by at least 70,000 votes.

Texas went traditionally Democratic, electing Dan Moody, attorney general, to the chair now held by Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas's first woman governor.

Brookhart had a lead of more than 50,000 over Claude W. Porter, Democrat, and his followers said this would be increased to 75,000 when the rest of the votes are in.

The Republicans also made a clean sweep in the eleven congressional districts and the state ticket came through without an upset for the Republicans, returns show.

BROOKHART RIDES BACK TO VICTORY

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 3.—Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, who was ousted from the senate a few months ago, rode back today on the crest of a Republican wave, incomplete returns showed today.

Brookhart had a lead of more than 50,000 over Claude W. Porter, Democrat, and his followers said this would be increased to 75,000 when the rest of the votes are in.

The Republicans also made a clean sweep in the eleven congressional districts and the state ticket came through without an upset for the Republicans, returns show.

Here's my smoke-platform

A JIMMY-PIPE with an ample bowl. A tobacco that is mild and mellow, yet not "mollicoddle," if you get me—and you do. You know what I mean . . . mild, yet with plenty of body to let you know you are smoking. A tobacco that smokes cool.

A tobacco that is fragrant in the package, to whet the appetite, and equally fragrant as you smoke it. A tobacco that does not bite the tongue or parch the throat. A tobacco so wonderfully satisfying that you are kept busy smoking and reloading, all day long.

There's only one tobacco in the whole wide world that I know of which meets this platform. Its name is "Prince Albert" and I claim it really is the prince of smokes. More men smoke this tobacco than any other brand, which is important and likewise true.

If you are still outside the fold of contented jimmy-pipers, buy a tidy red tin of P. A. today. No matter how satisfied you appear to be with your present brand, try Prince Albert. I promise you a smoke-experience that will be new and delightfully different.

The Girl Who Dared

By May Christie

CHAPTER 45 THE DEQUEMENT

At half-past eleven the following morning, Mary waited in the garden of the hacienda while the doctors, in Luella's room upstairs, were taking off the bandages.

Bees hummed among the flowers. The scents of summer drifted, poignantly sweet. Then a call came, sharp, staccato.

Mary hurried towards the house, a prayer for poor Luella on her lips.

"Go in!" The nurse was beckoning to her.

Mary crossed the threshold of Luella's room, afraid what she might see.

The doctors stood beside the bed. Luella was propped up on the pillows, a hand-mirror held before her face.

"Now here's your friend, dear," said the nurse.

Luella dropped the mirror, and Mary—her breath catching in her throat—saw that only the girl's neck and a portion of her chin were visible, and that her features were as delicately lovely as before!

"Oh, Mary, I can see! And I'm still quite pretty, don't you think?" she cried in a quavering but exultant voice. "With the fashionable high collar, or a fur, no one need see my neck!" Her voice broke. She suddenly held out her arms to Mary Forrest. And the two girls wept together.

Half an hour later Miss Luella Loder—in a fluff negligee of pale pink satin with an ostrich feather ruching high up to her chin—awaited the arrival of John Rogers like a little empress.

"I do look pretty, don't I, Mary? You said he'd be here at twelve o'clock today? He was utterly overcome, was he, when you told him of my—my accident?" She held the mirror to her face at various angles.

"He was thoroughly upset," said Mary Forrest. "But—Luella, you don't care for him?"

"H'm. H'm. Until his wife appeared in Nassau, I was—sort of keen about him," confessed the invalid. "And think of his money, Mary. Why, he could buy up this whole estate, I do believe, and never miss the price of it!"

A hope—a pulsing hope whose throbs she tried to crush immediately—rose in the heart of Mary Forrest. She must not let it master her. And so she said:

"I think Philip Andover is down on the plantation. Shall I go and fetch him before Mr. Rogers comes?"

Luella pouted.

"No. He can wait. One at a time is plenty." Then, eagerly: "Look out of the window and see if you can see John Rogers yet."

"I'm Little Sister Anne," said Mary, with a laugh whose gaiety surprised herself.

The nurse came in. Mary slipped out to the garden.

Then she saw Philip Andover approaching from the direction of the tobacco fields.

She ran to give him the good news.

"Does Luella want me to go up, right away?" His young face was flushed and awkward.

"She's expecting Mr. Rogers. She said—she said that one at a time was enough for her."

They both looked at each other suddenly and laughed.

"Mary," said Philip, reaching out a hand and taking hers, "I've a hunch that everything is going to turn out 'somehow good' for you and me. Now that Luella's got her health and sight and looks back, and Rogers' money is coming post-haste towards her, don't you think—"

"We mustn't think yet, Philip. It's too soon." She left her hand in his warm clasp, however, little thrills of hope enfolding her.

They stood there in the garden, talking earnestly together. So engrossed were they with one another that they failed to see John Rogers hastening up the avenue.

The nurse met him, giving him the news. A vast relief over-spread his countenance.

"Thank God!" He mopped his forehead. "There aren't many girls with her good looks."

Their meeting was dramatic. He had brought a diamond ring with him, and without awaiting her consent he slipped it quickly on Luella's finger.

"Oh, John! How exquisite!" Light was refracted in the facets of the jewel, and it blazed an icy blue, and then a dazzling white.

"You aren't going to get away

CHILDREN OF XENIANS FOLLOW PARENTS' STEPS; VOTE G. O. P.

Following the lead of Greene County, one of the party strongholds in Ohio, students of Central Junior and Senior High Schools piled up handsome majorities for Republican local, district and state candidates in a straw vote taken at the school Tuesday, election day.

PERMITS STUDENTS TO ATTEND FRAGAS

Class periods at Central High School for Thursday have been so arranged by Principal Spencer Shank as to enable all students to attend the Central-Springfield football game Thursday without missing classes.

Four periods are scheduled for the morning instead of three and these have been shortened correspondingly. In the afternoon school will commence at 12:15 instead of 12:30 and students will be dismissed at 1:05.

URGING PARENTS TO ATTEND GAME

Mrs. Charles Adair, president of Central High Parent-Teacher Association is urging all mothers and fathers of Central students to attend the Xenia-Springfield game at Springfield, Thursday. Keep Hair Tidy, Glossy, Wavy

By Edna Wallace Hopper

One of the best things experts ever made for me is a new-type hair dress. I call it my Wave and Sheen. It keeps hair so you wish it. If you wish fluffy hair like mine, just comb it backward and the fluff will stay. If you wish waves or curls, use comb or fingers in the usual way, and the curl will stay. If you have a Marcel wave, my Wave and Sheen will keep it. Or it keeps hair sleek and smooth for those who want it, without stickiness or grease. It will delight you, whatever your idea on hair dress. It gives a luster, enhances the color. It keeps the hair in any style you like.

All toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen under guarantee. The price is 75c. You will never go without it when you see what it means to your hair.
